AM authorized to sell an extremely VALUsinsippi river, about two makes south of Mem-phis, on the Arkansas side. It contains 235 Acres,

According to a survey made in 1859, with a river from of hait a mile. The soil consists of a remarkably fer-tile black loam, nearly as light as a bank of aslies, as some ides of its depth may be ascertained from the fact that a cistern has been dug, in its immediate vi-ciaity, to the depth of twelve feet, without reaching the clay. It is always entirely above everylog, the missreiay. It is almost entirely above overflow, the mispedented floods of '58 and '59 covering only a small plot of it, and it is also protected by a flue levee, wh tion of it, and it is also protected by a flue leeve, which has been grearly strengthened during the mat year. It has no improvements except some region cabins, but has several good roads through it, for the purpose of hadding wood to the river, where two five landings have been cut. It is one of the finest lightions for a wood yard on the river, having a bind ba ok and sufficient depth of water for boasts is land at any sesson of the year. The timber is very heavy, consisting of goin, ash, backberry and wahrd, and if cut off and seld, would more then pay for the land.

I have been told by competent indges, that the peculiar advantages of this land are as great, that his fir the present war, it could be sold readily for $100 per acre. Its nearness to the rapidly growing city of Memphis, greatly adde to its value, and should that city be made the capital of the Contederate States, as it is now thought it will be, in a very short time it would command $500 per acre.
